

DANCE-SHOW JUDGE KIMBERLY WYATT TELLS HOW DAUGHTER WILLOW IS A BUDDING DANCING QUEEN

'I think she may have a little bit of a performer in her'

With Strictly Come Dancing back on our screens, dance fan Kimberly Wyatt has her eyes on Len Goodman's job as head judge.

Having been on the judging panels of Taking the Next Step on CBBC and Sky's Got to Dance, the former Pussycat Doll certainly has the experience to take over from Len when he leaves at the end of the current series. "It's dance, so I'm all over it if they will have me," says Kimberly.

Her 18-month-old child Willow, her daughter with her model husband Max Rogers (together, left), would be just as thrilled. "When Willow sees me on TV she points and shouts, 'Mama'. When she sees a magazine she points and says, 'Dada' because she expects to see Max in there. She is growing up thinking that all parents exist in TV and magazines. It's crazy."

It seems Willow is already following in her mum's famous footsteps, as the little girl jigs about on her Fisher-Price Beat Bo Dance Mat. "She's quite shy, but when music comes on, she likes to be on boxes or dancing on a stage. I think she might be a lot like me in that respect," says Kimberly. "Whenever I take her to a dance class, all the other kids are cuddled up with their parents and there is Willow in the middle of everyone dancing and twirling, I think she may have a little bit of a performer in her."

Kimberly has been taking her dancing skills to schools as part of the Government's WellFit initiative to promote health and wellbeing.

After winning Celebrity MasterChef last year, she has also been making the most of her culinary skills, with cooking slots on various TV shows. "I loved doing 'Kimberly's Kitchen Garden' on Lorraine and hopefully we will continue with that," she says. "And I have done The Saturday Show."

"I can perform to thousands around the world, but put me on live TV and ask me to cook something and my hands start shaking. It was so stressful, but I go out there and I face those fears and cook up a storm." H
