KIMBERLY WYATT

The Got To Dance judge, 32, on boob boosts and marriage

What's your earliest memory of dancing?

Being at my first dance recital – I was wearing a neon green leotard and danced to Madonna's song Spotlight. [Laughs] You should've seen how much make-up I had on!

Ever had any dance disasters?

I've experienced everything from falling down stairs to snapping the heels off my shoes. But the most embarrassing moment was when I had this audition in front of a huge crowd. I felt my boobs needed a little boost, so I used chicken fillets – which flew out of my top and on to the stage during the performance. I was mortified!

Do you have a signature move?

You won't catch me doing something crazy at a club, like leg lifts. I'm not Louie Spence!

What current tunes get you on the dancefloor?

Anything by Sigma, especially Nobody To Love – it's amazing.

TV

I also love Paloma Faith's track Only Love Can Hurt Like This.

You got married to model

Max Rogers earlier this year.

How's married life?

I totally love it. I have the most gorgeous husband. I feel different – there's been a definite shift. I've never been super-close to my family so now I'm married I feel like I've finally found that.

Any plans to have kids?

Oh yes, for sure – I'd love to have a family. But I think we'll start with one first and then see how it goes.

*Got To Dance is on Sky1
